A City of White Elephants.

In lump figures $19,000,000 went into the construction of the fair buildings at Chicago and the preparation of the grounds for the exposition. The point that now interests the stockholders, and incidentally the whole city and country, is how much can be realized from that $19,000,000 worth of time and material. It is safe to assume that the time is dead waste. It is safe to say, also, that a large—almost a frightful—large proportion of the material will have to go by the board. In the rosy days of promotion it was figured that $3,000,000 could be realized from the sale of the buildings and the materials. Since then there has been a slump in the expectations, and to-day it is tossed up whether there will be enough salvage to pay for the tearing down of the buildings, the removal of the materials, and the restoration of the park to the condition in which it was before it was turned over to the exposition company.

The south park commissioners fear that the fair corporation will forfeit its $100,000 bond and abandon the buildings rather than attempt to tear them down and restore the grounds to their original condition. John C. Fleming, Chicago representative of the Carnegie companies, which furnished about two thirds of the iron entering into the buildings, says that "a very large part of the iron at Jackson Park will have to go into the scrap pile." That means that it will have to be sold for old iron, and at a price which may not pay a half or a quarter of the price making it available even for that disposition. There are 7,000 tons of iron in the Manufactures building costing about $70 a ton to put it in place, or nearly $500,000 in all. There are nearly 30,000 tons in the several buildings, representing a cost of over $1,500,000.

Illustrative of the cost of taking down iron work, it may be stated that the architect of Steele Mackaye's skeleton Specterium estimates that it will cost $45,000, and every dollar that can be realized from the sale of material to pull down and remove that unsightly monument of yet other blissful promotion moments. The owners of the Ferria wheel expect to pay $83,000 to responsible contractors to take down, transport and set up that wonderful piece of work on another site. Emil Phillips says it will cost $100,000 over and above the salvage to tear down and remove the Manufactures building. Diligent inquiry among working firms and contractors failed to uncover any that would confess having any intention of bidding on the destruction of the White City, or that would admit that they knew of anybody who had a definite purpose in that direction.

No matter who has the work to do, there is going to be a great trouble and expense in disposing of the waste and rubbish. Where to put it will be a tough problem to solve. It cannot be dumped haphazard into the lake, as much of it would be washed back upon the shore by the action of the water. The authorities would not allow that disposition to be made of it. There will be between 10,000 and 12,000 carloads of waste material to be hauled away from Jackson Park, according to the calculation of a prominent contractor—that is to say, between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 cubic yards of rubbish. There will be some thousands of carloads of stuff alone to be carried away.

There is no hole or swamp to fill up within transportable distance of Jackson Park. A suggestion has been offered that the waste material be used for the creation of an artificial mountain at the southeast corner of the park. In the loose form it will be in when carried from the grounds, the waste material will make a pile 1,000 feet square and between 15 and 20 feet high. The surface area of such a creation would be about twenty-three acres.

It was said while the buildings were being erected that the iron framework of several of them would be sold to railroad companies to be used as stations. All the roads running into Chicago have fine stations, and there seems to be no chance to dispose of the iron frames there.

The question the officials want answered is, What shall be done with the buildings and the rubbish?

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years.
I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease.—Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Atty., Washington,

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me.
